

Burns Anniversary Is Fittingly Observed

The one hundred and seventy-first anniversary of the birth of Bobby Burns, the honored, revered and much beloved Scottish bard, was fittingly observed in Gordon Memorial Church, last Friday evening when the Ladies' Aid of the congregation put on a Burns supper and concert.

Although the attendance was not as large as on previous occasions the quality of the addresses and the program was in keeping with past performances and those present thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

The supper, which had everything on its menu from taities, hiled and chappit, to the "Great chieftain of the pudding race," was a treat which all thoroughly enjoyed.

After the supper there was a toast list and musical program which was able carried out under the chairmanship of Rev. W. B. Smith. When the King's health was heartily drunk, R. C. Hargrave proposed the toast to "The land in which we live." He referred to the potential wealth of our natural resources and stated that if we are to reap the full benefits of those resources we must keep pace with the development along engineering and scientific lines and make the best use of our capital and brains.

Responding to this toast A. N. Collard referred to the many things for which older countries have been noted, and expressed the hope that Canada's name would stand out in the pages of history as a country generous people, happy homes and one whose parents had given their children the proper training to fit them for carrying on the country's affairs in a manner which would make for an exalted nation.

"The Immortal Memory" was proposed by E. L. Stone. In his endeavor to find how Burns has won his way into the hearts of the people and was being honored all over the world by similar gatherings, the speaker said it was not because Burns stood out as a great hero in any battle on land or sea, nor because of distinction gained as a great statesman or philanthropist; rather, it was his life of poverty, discouragement and despair, and so common to others of his day, play any part in it. "In the 18th century, an awareness of the public. To find the reason for his popularity, the speaker said, we have to go to his poems where he tells Burns to be a man of letters, humanity, an ardent lover of nature, a man of spirit, heart and outstanding feelings, an independent patriot who had had the gift of inspiring true patriotism in those about him, and behind it all he had a firm belief in the existence of a Supreme Being who looked on heart and not on the outward appearance. Stanzas were read from several of Burns' poems showing he possessed these qualities. In closing the speaker drew attention to the gathering of the world powers now in London for the purpose of making the most honest endeavor to bring about the fulfillment of the 20th century hope and prayer when he said: "Then let it pray, that come it may, as exile it will, a that, that man to man the

The toast to "The Ladies" was ably handled by C. T. Hall and J. Leamouth who traced the development of woman generally ages down to the present when her influence along all lines of activities was an outstanding feature of all progress and development in the church the home and the state.

During the evening a most appropriate musical program was rendered. Duets were sung by Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Cunn, and by Mrs. Stone and Miss Miss McWae. Mrs. Balmer, Mrs. Trimball, Mrs. McWae sang solos. Mrs. Thacker and A. J. Leamouth gave recitations. E. T. Cooke gave a violin selection and Mrs. R. C. Hargrave a piano selection. Community singing was variety to the program. All the selections were Scottish in character and were exceptionally well rendered and enthusiastically enjoyed.

At the close of the program Jordan Memorial's patriarch, Mr. Wm. Henderson, extended the thanks of the congregation to the ladies for arranging the event and to all those who contributed to the program, which he referred to as one of the best he had ever attended.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne and the benediction brought the program to a close.

Town Council Holds A Quiet Session

Ratepayers' Meeting Will Be Held In City Hall Friday This Week

Very little new business was transacted at the regular council meeting last Monday evening.

J. Hope waited on Council regarding the unsatisfactory condition of the scavenging work in town. After some discussion it was decided to leave the matter in abeyance till after the municipal elections.

A letter was read from the Social Welfare society of mission, drawing attention to the almost destitute condition of a former Redcliff family in that city, and asking for assistance. The Mayor reported that as the request was urgent he had given instructions to the secretary to forward $25.00. The action of the Mayor was endorsed by the council.

The Dept. of Agriculture at Edmonton wrote notifying council that a short course was being conducted at the capital to qualify men to act as weed inspectors and asking for the co-operation of the council in controlling the weeds.

The offer for the frame building just north of the hotel was not accepted.

The Mayor reminded the councillors of the ratepayers meeting on Friday evening of this week, and requested that all be present. He also reminded them of nomination day on Monday Feb. 10th.

Superintendent Kitchen reported that the water meter at the Dominion Greenhouse was out of commission, and council decided on motion of councillors Brylie and Champ, to give the greenhouse a flat rate of $5.00 a month, for water.

The Alberta Legislature was formally opened Thursday afternoon by Lieut.-Gov. Dr. Ebert. It promises to be one of the most interesting sessions in the history of the province.

Nomination Day Here Next Monday

For Mayor Three Councillors and Three School Trustees

Although the municipal election is only two weeks away, there appears to be practically no excitement or movement towards inducing new candidates into the field for either the council or school board or for Mayor. This may be taken as an indication that ratepayers have been well satisfied with the success of the past year and would like to have them retain office.

In the council the two year term of the Mayor and three councillors expires the end of this month. The three councillors are Messrs. Brylie, Champ and Sissons. The Mayor has signified his willingness to stand again if the ratepayers so desired. Of the councillors Mr. Sissons has definitely decided he will not be a candidate again. While the other two feel that they have done their duty to the town for the past seven or eight years, we have no doubt they could be induced to stand again rather than have the election go by default, as it would be liable to do if more interest were not taken by the ratepayers than in past years. On the school board the retiring trustees are Messrs. Leamouth, Newham and Sisson. All three have taken an active interest in the school for the past two years and should continue for another term.

Nominations for these offices will take place at the Town Hall on Monday, Feb. 2nd from 11 o'clock a.m. till 12 o'clock noon before returning officer, Mr. Wm. Henderson. Should a poll be necessary the same will be held on Monday, Feb. 10th.

Col. Nelson Spencer, former member for Medicine Hat in the Alberta legislature, left for Vancouver for the C. P. R. or C. N. R.

At two o'clock of the business session the Ladies' Aid served lunch.

Coming Attractions At the Cameo

Boatman plays in this new upvarious comedy, an apprentice seafarer cameraman, srooting scenes in New York. Among the thrills are his drop from a four-story building into a Chinese junk; a thrilling boat accident; a scene in which he climbs, like a monkey, over a Fifth Avenue bus; a swimming pool scene in which he narrowly escapes drowning, and other misadventures, all in a hilarious strain.

How would you feel if you came home from your honeymoon, looking forward to your wife's delight in the pretty new you had gotten ready for her, and found her impossible mother and father, two brothers and a kid sister also occupying the premises.

To Cut Air Mail Schedule

Feasibility Of Pick-Up Device Proved By Tests

An air mail pick-up device, capable of receiving and discharging mail sacks while an airplane is in full flight, may cut existing air mail schedules fifteen minutes to an hour, according to the American Air Transport Association, which says that tests of the device already made, promise its future adoption as one of the country's twenty-four air mail routes.

The tests being made at Youngstown, O., have proved the feasibility of catching a mail bag as it swings on the end of a 75 foot cable attached to a plane in full flight. The device consists of a V-shaped trap, built in the ground. As the mail bag from the plane is caught in the trap, the device automatically attaches another bag, which is hauled up into the plane. Similar tests are being carried out in the receiving and discharging of mail at sea, on the B.S. Levantine. The theory which "portal" officials, air mail operators and the inventor are working on, is that an air mail plane can leave an airport, scoop down on the pick-up device, haul the mail to a similar device near the post office in the city at the other end of the line, and then go on to that city's airport.

Telephones To Ship At Sea

Can Communicate By Phone With Lines a Thousand Miles From Shore

Communication by telephone from the mainland with ships at sea became a permanent commercial project with the inauguration of service between New York and the liner Leviathan, 200 miles off shore, bound for Europe.

President Walter Clifford, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, formally opened the service by "ringing up" Captain Cunningham of the Leviathan.

The first actual commercial message to be delivered to the Leviathan by telephone came from Atlantic City, where, in his hotel room, William H. Rankin, advertising executive, chatted for five minutes with Sir Thomas Lipton, a passenger. Rankin is the first man to pay money for such a privilege.

The service was perfect, Rankin said. The noted yachtman informed the advertising man that he will return to America next June, hoping to win America's Cup with the Shamrock V.

Telephone Company officials said communication with ocean liners will remain good until the vessel is beyond 1,000 miles from shore. The flat rate for a three-minute conversation between New York and the Leviathan is $21, with an additional $7 for each additional minute.

Pedestrians Wear Lights

Safety First Measure Is Adopted In The Streets Of London

Trade drivers of automobiles soon will be yelling "Lights!" at pedestrians, if a growing custom becomes universal. Traffic has become so congested in London, that wary pedestrians are rigging themselves with lights to warn motorists of their presence in the streets. One type of rear light consists of an electric light and reflector mounted on a luminous card worn on the shoulders by a card.

Canada's Highways Important

The highways in Canada are becoming increasingly important year by year in the economic structure of the country. Over them is carried a heavy traffic, both passenger and freight, especially between the large cities and towns. At the end of 1928 the total mileage of surfaced roads in Canada was 64,121.

Four motorcars came into collision at the same time at Birmingham.

X-Ray Can Be Measured

To Determine Combined Effect Of Quantity and Quality

"X-rays may be measured as accurately as the pharmacists measure drugs in the drug store," said Dr. A. Mitchell, of New York, in a paper before the convention of the radiological society of North America, held recently in Toronto. "In modern medicine the greatest forward step was made when methods became known to weigh accurately a given drug and then also when its physiological strength could be determined. The importance of these two determinations arises out of the fact that not only the quantity must be known, but also their power of effectiveness. The same holds true with regard to X-rays, for the nature of their effect depends neither up on their quantity or quality alone but on the combined measure of both."

A Record for Safety

Big Eastern Concern Operates Plant For Two Consecutive Years Without Lost-Time Accident

The great campaign for the prevention of accidents and the safeguarding of human life that is being carried on by energetic organizations and the press of the country has been a tangible result that are decidedly encouraging to the sponsors of the safety movement.

Last week one of the large industrial concerns of Canada celebrated a full year of freedom from lost-time accidents, by giving a banquet to their more than 400 employees. This company, the Canadian National Carbox Company, Limited, whose head office and plant is located in Toronto, has devoted a great deal of time to educating their employees to the importance of working safely, and the Safety Committee is constantly devising guards for the machines, re-arranging time-tables of working hours to the limit of his or her ability with the knowledge that they are safe from accidents that might cause loss of time and injury and reduce their earning capacity.

To make safety more impressive, the Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation presents to each plant which operates for a full year without a lost-time accident a handsome bronze shield. For each succeeding year the record is maintained on a bronze bar is added to the shield. It was to celebrate the second year in which this Canadian plant operated without a lost-time accident and earned the bronze bar that the Company gave this employee a very quiet in the handsome, completely equipped cafeteria which is a part of the plant.

Besides the hundreds of employees who attended the banquet, a number of distinguished guests were present and addressed the process of manufacturing in the handsome, completely equipped cafeteria which is a part of the plant.

The gathering was entertained by the Forestry Plant, which heard regularly through the Company's own broadcasting station, CKNC, Toronto.

Modern Astronomers Surprised At Records Collected By Early Indian Ruler

There lived in India, in the seventeenth century, a ruler known as Maharajah Jai Singh II, and being keenly interested in astronomy he evolved a series of structures which, though not now used for practical purposes, constitute the most unique astronomical instruments in existence. It appears to have collected all kinds of astronomical bodies, and sent some workers to foreign countries to gather information. Having decided on which to make the necessary recording of the movements of the heavenly bodies, he selected five places in India as the centres in which the observations should be taken. The first he built at Delhi, and then others in Jaipur, Ujjain, Benares, and Mathura. The observations in Delhi and Jaipur have been carefully retained. In addition to a number of metal instruments he erected large masonry instruments some of them as high as 90 feet. Very careful records were made of the observations of his star of workers, and modern astronomers have been surprised at the valuable information thus collected. The ruler responsible for these interesting instruments died in 1745, and his wives, concubines and science expired with him on his funeral pyre.

Great Water Users

Scottish Town Seems To Be Thirstiest In British Isles

Have you any idea how much water the average city dweller uses daily? In Scotland, where the population is 4,500,000, the water supply is 100 million gallons per day. Here they need. While the authorities have to supply an area of 508 square miles, and give the seven million people who live there they need. While the authorities have to supply an area of 508 square miles, and give the seven million people who live there they need. While the authorities have to supply an area of 508 square miles, and give the seven million people who live there they need.

Yet that is only the average supply per head per day. In the dry, hot weather the amount required for each person becomes 40 gallons more than a barrel of water per day for each man, woman, and child. London is not the thirstiest town in the British Isles. Here they take 81.7 gallons per head. One reason given for Scotland's large consumption is that the water supply is much better than in England.

Contesting

Canada's Claim

Must Occupy Arctic Before Ownership Is Proved, Says Norwegian Premier

Canada's position with regard to territory to the Arctic archipelago is unaltered from the claim reiterated in 1907. It has been stated, however, that had it not been for the Minister of the Interior, it was made known in Government circles at Ottawa. News dispatches from London had indicated that Premier Mowinkel of Norway, contested the right of this country to mark out sectors of the Arctic as possessions in which Canada's interests were paramount. The Norwegian premier asserted in a speech at Bergen that territory could be claimed only when it had actually been occupied, and that since Canada had not occupied all the Arctic, this country's interests in unoccupied territory could not be maintained.

That the opinions of Premier Mowinkel in this respect will not affect the right of this country to make claims to the Arctic islands north of the Canadian mainland, between longitude 60 and 140 degrees west, was flatly asserted by Government officials. Several attempts had been made in the past to disprove Canadian ownership of that archipelago, but recognition was now general, and Norway appeared to be the only nation that was still contesting it.

Use Of Old Formula Upset Decorum Of British House

The decorum of the British House of Commons was upset the other day when the use of time-honored formula which proved, in this instance, quite out of place under modern conditions. Miss Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, gave an answer which did not satisfy Sir Frederick Hail, Conservative.

"May I press the Right Honorable Lady," began Sir Frederick, when he was interrupted by uproarious shouts of "No!" Sir Frederick apologized and refrained his query.

C.P.R. Disposes Of 11,892 Acres In Saskatchewan In 11 Months

Sales by the land department of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the 11 months of 1928, in Saskatchewan, amounted to 11,892 acres, according to figures released by officials of the company at Saskatoon. This acreage was purchased by 627 settlers. The large majority of land purchases were made in the northern part of the province.

A further feature of the sales was in fact that practically all the farms purchased were acquired by new settlers.
